Tap the talent of Humphrey School students and graduates

We can help meet your organization's needs with:
- Tailored support for your recruitment strategy
- Free electronic posting of jobs, internships, and project work
- Access to on-campus events where you can promote your organization and meet potential interns and employees, including career fairs, information sessions, and one-on-one interviews
- Virtual access through our eCampus recruiting program, allowing you to meet Humphrey talent via video-conference or web-based information sessions at no cost
- Scheduling assistance and free space for on-campus interviews

We provide a direct pipeline to:
- Full-time or part-time professional employees
- Graduate student interns, both part-time (academic year) and full-time (summer)
- Capstone workshops that provide teams of students to solve important problems for client organizations. For more information about these project teams, please contact Ms. Stacey Grimes at grime004@umn.edu.

“What employers say:

“Proficiency in key methods of analysis is fundamental to good policy. What makes Humphrey students stand apart from the crowd is the perspective, insight, and judgment they bring from their first-hand experience in policy settings.” —Eric Oetjen, vice president, ICF Consulting, Washington, D.C.

“Our last four hires were Humphrey graduates, and we have been positively thrilled with their contributions.”
—Annie Tietema, Dislocated Worker Program, Minnesota Department of Employment and Economic Development

“We have had great experiences with Humphrey School students and graduates. They bring excellent critical thinking skills to bear on our projects and can really see how the problems they are tackling fit into the larger scheme of things.” —Stella Si Wan Zimmerman, president, ACET, Inc.
